

On The Great White Way

NEAR-NEWS AND CHATTER FOR SATURDAY NIGHT

To the lady first correctly guessing the identity of the person of whom the following is a character sketch, and bringing a copy of this paper to the Tribune office, a cash prize of $1.00 will be given. The subject of the sketch is a prominent citizen of La Crosse. After winning one prize, a contestant will not be eligible to again compete for a period of three months.

Myron Locke was the man described in last week's "Guess Who's Here" contest, the winner being Mrs. A. Drake, 421 Jay street.

Himself wide awake, he's a sleep promoter. That is, he destroys our inclination to sleep, yet furnishes us the means. He's essential to our joys and sorrows, because, you know, "In bed we laugh, in bed we cry, and in bed we die." Well, it's nice to provide us with that "soft spot to light on." That's his business, and it hasn't anything to do with his having the most romantically curly Rupert-of-Hentzau beard that ever was dyed a blue-eyed Teuton. But he has the beard and the blue eyes and the thousand-dollar smile that never comes off excepting when the blue eyes turn black and you'd better watch out. How a man who works so constantly finds time to make so many friends is a mystery one does not care to solve, for he has the army of friends who glad-hand him about the town, and who cares how he gets them? He's middling good sized, with the embonpoint of middle years, and his name—say, his name is a left and all drolled up. Now, if you can put two and two together—

One wouldn't think anybody who knew Jim Thompson could be fooled by the twinest kind of a twin brother, but if it be not contempt of court we'll wager that Jim can run up to the Eighth district and hold court for his brother without the district attorney or the clerk of the court knowing the difference. As was said Wednesday, the only way one can distinguish between Jim and George is to weigh them. To show how remarkable is the resemblance between these two brothers the following recital will suffice: On the day following the election of George Thompson as judge of the Eighth Wisconsin judicial district, The Tribune published a picture of the successful jurist. So much did this picture resemble our own Jim Thompson that many readers twitted us with having made a mistake. So much amusement did they derive from their error that we decided to further entertain them. So we had a duplicate of our cut of Judge George Thompson made, and published the original and the duplicate side by side, one cut as "George" and the other as "Jim."

And, would you believe it, our can't-foot-us readers hastened to assure us that the two cuts of Judge George Thompson were in reality cuts of our own Jim Thompson. It has all been very amusing, but the time has now come to prove to our hep-to-it squad that they don't know the difference between Jim Thompson and a regular judge. Get an eyeful of the following cut:

The above cut shows a photograph of Judge George Thompson of Ellsworth. It is the cut which was published lished alongside of its exact duplicate, the two marked respectively, "Jim" and "George." In the absence of anything with which to compare it, the above cut does look remarkably like Jim Thompson, and the blunder of our readers is not without excuse. But who will contend that it is the cut of Jim Thompson after comparing it with the genuine picture of Jim Thompson, which follows?

George thinks the chief difference is that he is handsomer than Jim. Of course Jim can't see it that way, but Jim isn't as good a judge as George is. (Spank! Go to bed!) Readers are invited to contribute opinions upon this topic:

Outside of their looks, what's the difference?

Going away? The deuce
You say: Well, goodbye, Moos.
We hate to lose you, pal,
And that sweet Irish gal

You kidnaped from our midst
(You didst! You know you didst!)
We'll miss your pep, your grin;
Your slam-bang temper, too,
For whate'er mood you're in You're sure true blue.

Goodbye—smile, damn you, smile!
Milwaukee ain't so far,
And every little while
We'll see you thar.
We sabs, soon or late
A fellow must cut loose,
You feel you've got to go—
Goodbye and good luck, Moos.

"Oh, what a fall was there,
My countrymen!"

Tomah correspondent in Leader-Press:—"There is no truth in the report that T—O—is dead. Mr. O—is in a serious condition as the result of injuries he received a few days ago when he fell off the wagon on his way home from town."

A correspondent writes:—"That story about the ventriloquist and the mouse was funny, but aren't you afraid that sort of stuff will prevent the White Way from being taken seriously?"

"SMITH'S PLACE"
CLOSED TODAY BY
WIFE OF "CORD"

Key Turned in Notorious Roadhouse Following the Robbery There of Californian

GET NO TRACE OF PROPRIETOR

Man Who Spirited Alleged Thieves to Winona to Prevent Their Arrest Makes Getaway

MILLER GIRL IS RELEASED TODAY

"Comes Clean" to Police and Will Not Be Held; Bartender Is Still at Large

"Smith's place," a roadhouse on the South Salem road, was today closed "upon advice of attorney," following the robbery there Wednesday night of Edward Olson, a Californian.

Where once bright lights shown upon painted women and reckless men, where gilded youth mingled with hardened characters of the underworld, tonight all will be dark.

Where once the solemn stillness of rural midnight was broken by monotonous, syncopated pounding of a cheap piano and the shrill voices of demimondaines mingled with the hoarse shouts of drink-inflamed men all will be silent—save for the occasional whirr of an auto passing on its way to the "next place up the line."

Mrs. Nellie Smith, wife of "Cord" Smith, the proprietor, who spirited his bartender and one of the inmates to Winona following the robbery, today agreed with District Attorney D. S. Law and Police Chief J. B. Webber to "turn the key" in the resort this afternoon and never open again. This agreement was made following a conference with her attorney.

Keeper Responsible
"Cord" Smith has accomplished for decency what warrants, raids and lengthy court procedure failed to achieve—the closing of a notorious resort. Temptation in the form of the Californian's roll served to put an end to one of the most vicious roadhouses in the county.

That Cord Smith returned to La Crosse after taking the alleged thieves to Winona, and that he scented trouble with the authorities when he reached the Line house on the Onalaska road and made a getaway, is the admission of the police.

Smith took the couple to Winona, leaving here at 4 o'clock Thursday morning. He reached the Linehouse on the return trip Thursday evening. His machine was punctured.

Frank Allendorf, whom the police sought yesterday as a possible source of information regarding Smith's whereabouts told the police that he went to the Linehouse in his own car in response to a call, to take Smith's car to the Smith place on the South Salem road.

Took Him to Winona
He returned to the Linehouse for his own car, he claims, and there met a man who informed him that another wanted him to call for him in Onalaska. Allendorf says he went to Onalaska, found Smith and upon payment of a fat fee conveyed him to Beachy's "Old Stone House," a resort near Fast Winona. The police believe Smith took the Green Bay to Green Bay, and there boarded a train for Chicago.

No trace has been found of "Cy" Smith, the bartender alleged to have made the "touch" an is believed that he deserted "Madge" Miller, the girl with whom he ran away following the alleged robbery.

The Miller girl was this morning released after "coming clean" to the police. "Coming clean" in police vernacular is the equivalent of a confession. She claimed she knew nothing of the robbery until they had left the place and had merely thought they were running away. She said the bartender had the $150 taken from Olson with three $100 express orders and that he told her he had thrown it from the auto after he had been "captured" at Grand Crossing by Cord Smith and forced to return.

AMERICAN FLEET
STORM CENTER IN
TAMPICO HARBOR

Only Apology by Huerta and Salute of U. S. Flag Prevents Trouble There Today

AMERICAN SEAMEN ARE ARRESTED

Picked Up While in Whale-boat in Harbor with Officer and Protest Is Made to Dictator

OTHER POWERS' SHIPS RESTIVE

U. S. Troops May Be Forced to Land to Prevent British and German Forces from Doing So

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Intervention in Mexico hung in the balance for several hours yesterday. This was admitted by high government officials this afternoon. Only apologies for the unwarranted arrest of American blue jackets from the Mexican federal commander at Tampico, and complete disavowal of the acts of his subordinates by Provisional President Huerta himself, prevented what would have admittedly been an act of war. The incident was closed by the apologies.

MEXICO CITY, April 11.—Apology by General Huerta and agreement to salute the American flag in Tampico harbor with 21 guns, today averted an international crisis, caused by the arrest yesterday of a paymaster and his men in a whale-boat belonging to the U. S. S. Dolphin at Tampico. The arrest made by Colonel Hinojosa, and it is reported that Huerta has ordered him under arrest.

Charge Nelson O'Shaughnessy called upon Huerta as soon as Admiral Mayo had cabled him of the incident. Huerta was quick to offer redress.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Serious international complications may be forced at Tampico. The English and German naval chiefs are reported to have threatened to land forces for the protection of their own citizens if Mayo doesn't enforce order. This threat may force the hand of the American and compel him to land his own blue jackets and marines.

Fighting, eclipsing in intensity and brutality even that which marked the original assault on Torreón, was reported to the state department today to be in progress at San Pedro, near Torreón. The combined forces of the Mexican federals are reported by Consul Theodore C. Hamm to be engaged with practically Villa's entire army.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 11.—Fierce fighting between Mexican federals and constitutionalists under G. Osuna in Lower California has been in progress for two weeks, according to passengers who arrived here today on the steamer Benito Juarez. On account of interruption of telegraph facilities, they said, this news did not reach the outside world earlier.

FED AT MISSION

During the month of March, three hundred and seventy-three free lodgings were furnished at the La Crosse Rescue Mission on Pearl street. Ninety-seven men worked for lodgings. Two hundred and fifty-one meals were served and one hundred and three baths given, according to the monthly report.

Superintendent D. C. Dewey has inaugurated a new system for feeding the men who apply at the mission or at homes for food, in the form of meal tickets which can be bought by charitable persons and given to men who apply at their doors.

Following is the Easter program for the mission: Sunday school this evening at 7:55. Sunrise prayer meeting, 6 a. m. tomorrow. Services at county jail at 10 a. m. Sunday school at 3 p. m. Bible class at 4 p. m. Prayer service at 5 p. m. Evening service of song and prayer at 7:45. The Young Ladies' choir will sing at this service.

HELLO GIRLS OF
LOCAL EXCHANGE
NAMED IN SUIT

Wife of George R. Johnstone, Former Manager of La Crosse Telephone Co., Asks Divorce

LOCKS OF THEIR HAIR EVIDENCE

Tresses of Bright Red and Jet Black Exhibited by Wife; Discovered in Endearing Letters

LEFT HERE FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Inquiry Here Develops that Tale of Johnstone's Conduct with Operators Was Current

Two locks of hair, one bright red and the other jet black, from the heads of two La Crosse telephone exchange girls were offered in evidence in solvency court yesterday in Cincinnati, Ohio, by Mrs. Laura N. Johnstone, in her divorce suit against George R. Johnstone, superintendent of equipment of the Cincinnati and Suburban Bell Telephone company of Cincinnati.

Johnstone was manager of the La Crosse Telephone company shortly after its organization. He left La Crosse fifteen years ago. Inquiry among local telephone officials today developed that at the time of Johnstone's leaving, tales of his conduct with two girls of the local exchange were current among the employees of the company.

Mrs. Johnstone testified that the locks of hair were in letters which she found in her husband's trunk. The letter from the girl with the red hair, according to the wife, had many endearing phrases.

Mrs. Johnstone said: "When I walked into his hotel room at La Crosse, Wis., I found him on his knees on the floor before his open valise. He was reading a letter from the red haired La Crosse, Wis., telephone girl. He was smiling as he read. He admitted the auburn haired one was infatuated with him. He promised to give up his correspondents and I forgave him. But later he went back to La Crosse as manager of the exchange there."

She further testified that later she had a personal interview with the black haired girl in his office at La Crosse. "She sat swinging her feet on my husband's desk while I was talking to her," the wife testified. "But she promised to give him up."

"My husband owed one La Crosse boarding house $300 alone, while he was spending his money on La Crosse telephone girls at my expense."

"My wife had nagged me for years and I thought I was entitled to a divorce," testified Johnstone. "I wanted to start buying a modest home with my father's assistance for the first payment, but my wife wouldn't have anything but a pressed brick house."

Mrs. Johnstone is now living in Considine avenue, Price Hill, in Cincinnati.

"COPETTE" UP TO
COUNCIL TUESDAY

Tuesday evening in the council chamber at the city hall the council, sitting as a committee of the whole will hear arguments for and against the creation of a woman police officer here. Her duties would not be to travel a beat, but, rather, to look after the welfare of girls, women and children who through adversity or waywardness fall into the hands of the law. Mayor Sorenson has invited members of the various women's clubs to attend.

The proposition of appropriating $1,000 to aid in the Home Coming, Made in La Crosse and Fourth of July celebration will also be taken up.

SCOUR ISLAND TO DISCOVER TRACE
OF THE SLAYER

Scaled Verdict Returned by Coroner's Jury After the Inquest Yesterday

MYSTERY SURROUNDS HIS DEATH

Was Found Sitting in Skiff with Bullet Holes from Shot Piercing Head Behind Ear

THINK THE VERDICT IS MURDER

From Fact that Sheriff and His Posse Are Out After Slayer Accidental Theory Is Scouted

That Martell was deliberately murdered for some unknown motive, was the statement of Sheriff A. B. Larson of Allamakee county, late this afternoon. He said that suicide was impossible from the nature of the wounds, and that Martell had evidently been killed from ambush as he rowed to the island. No arrests have been made. The sheriff said that the victim had taken no money with him to the island, and that so far as is known he had no enemies.

The sheriff, several deputies and other officials of Allamakee county, Iowa, are today scouring the woods of an island, a mile above Harper's Ferry, in search of the slayer of C. Martell. Martell was found dead, sitting in his skiff near the island, at 1 o'clock Friday morning. Bullet wounds behind the left ear prove conclusively that Martell was killed by another person.

Sealed Verdict

Deep mystery today shrouds the death of the Harper's Ferry man, whose body now lies in his home at that place. An inquest was held yesterday morning but a sealed verdict was returned by the jury the contents of which are as yet withheld from the public.

Mrs. Martell, widow of the dead man testified at the inquest, stating that he had left home Thursday morning and had started to row to the island to cut wood. He failed to return at meal time and when he did not return at night she notified the authorities, who with several neighbors, formed a searching party. After hours of unavailing search one party stumbled upon a skiff near the island at 1 o'clock Friday morning.

Dead in Boat

A closer inspection revealed Martell sitting in the rear end of the boat as though asleep. Climbing aboard when he failed to respond to their calls, they found he was dead. The body was removed to Harper's Ferry, where upon examination several small bullet holes and a clot of blood were found just behind the left ear, denoting that death had been caused by a charge from a shot gun.

Owing to the absence of the county coroner, a justice of the peace was called upon to preside at the coroner's inquest held yesterday morning. Just what were the reasons of the jury for returning a sealed verdict is not known.

Verdict Probably Murder

From the fact, however, that the sheriff and deputies are continuing the search of the island today, it is evident that a verdict of accidental death was not reached by the jury, and it is probable that their decision is murder at the hands of an unknown person. Allamakee county officials today refused to commit themselves as to whether anybody is suspected of the crime.

Daddy's Bedtime

The Moonlight
Story— Party of the Moths
And Butterflies.

They Had a Good Time.

VELYN asked daddy as soon as he got in the house if it was yet time for butterflies or any of the moth family.

"That question reminds me," said daddy, "of a party the gray night flying moths gave the other night."

"Some of the moths and small butterflies were there—in fact, as many of the moth and butterfly family who were up and ready for the summer. The tortricids, the tineids, the black streaked brown butterflies, the blue butterflies and the elms were all there. So, you see, they really did have quite a large party."

"But it was given by the gray night flying moths, and it was given on a bright moonlight night. They chose a very lovely old fashioned garden for their party."

"The moon was shining brightly and made the nicest light. The stars twinkled and blinked way up in the sky, just as if they were in the party too. At least they did seem to be trying to help along the gaiety of the party by being just as bright as they possibly could be, and they looked down over the party just as if they wanted to look very, very merry."

"Ha, ha; it does my heart good to see a fine party and more especially to see all the little butterflies and moths once more having a good time!"

"They certainly did have a good time. They danced such fairy-like dances, and they watched their shadows under the moonlight. They all felt so glad to be alive and dancing, and playing once more did make them happy."

"After they'd danced for some time they had a supper of apple worms and delicious fruit buds. They had danced so long that it seemed nice to have a supper party all together. They all sat on the bushes and ate their supper. But after it was all over they still wanted the party to continue. So the gray night flying moths said:

"No one must go to bed yet. The party isn't quarter over. We'll feel you are not having a good time if you go home so soon."

"All the other butterflies and moths chimed in at once:

"Oh, gray night flying moths, you are most wonderful moths, and you give the most marvelous parties! None of us has ever had such a fine party before, and we certainly do not want to go home. We'll stay ever and ever so much longer—until very, very late." At that the moon again winked and grinned and said:

"I'm going to stay up all night, so why shouldn't all you moths and butterflies? I like company, and I like to be amused, and you can't make me sleepy or tired."

"So the party continued for a good long time."

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

TULIPS IN THE SQUARE

BY ROSE DENNINGTON

Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

The eleventh hour, the last rehearsal, and his big soprano was ill. He had absolutely failed to find a singer capable of filling the place. So much for the difficulties of Herr Baum, choirmaster of St. Luke's, on the very eve of his famous Easter festival.

And for Margaret Hall, released only that day from the city pesthouse and lying stretched out on the window sill of a wretched room there was—no money and no voice! Why hadn't they let her die? She clutched hopelessly at the cords of her throat. "Paralysis," the city's doctor said pitifully, and turned away from the blight in her face.

Her great voice was gone, the voice that could have borne her to the high pinnacles of fame. Because of it she had sent Robert Lynn out of her life, though he had pleaded mightily to stay. Would he care now, if he knew, she wondered. She prayed that he might never know, and—breathed his name passionately out into the night.

A bit of April breeze hurried pitily—and caressed the hot dry cheeks—a bit of breeze that was soft and earthy, and sweet with hope and flowers. Flowers! She looked up with dawning eagerness. They were out there beyond the clothes lines and chimney pots and the church with the spire—crimson and yellow tulips, whole beds of them, in the square.

Perhaps they would let her lie there through the cool, dark night with their dewy petals on her parched lips. She drew a daring breath. She would go quickly away from the sordid room—out—to the tulips in the square.

Down the rickety steps she passed to the street. She felt strangely buoyant and strong. A block, and the buoyancy had left her; another, and needle stabs of pain pricked at her knees and feet. The flickle April breeze no longer lured her on. There was a clinging chill in it.

The vestry door of the church with the spire was open. Two men went strolling into it, and a woman with a book under her arm. The girl hesitated and slowly turned. She would rest in there, and after a while—go back. She was too tired tonight for the tulips.

She pushed the padded door open into the warm, flower-scented air of the church and sank exhausted and faint into a nearby seat. The organ rolled out a few big notes and as through a mist she saw the choir gathering to the stalls, and down in front of the chancel a woman fluttering among lilies.

The choir! Lilies! Why, it was Easter time! She started up. She had forgotten it, and in another moment they were going to sing. She must get away. She could not bear that yet—not yet!

But even as she staggered to her feet a tall queen lily seemed to beckon her imperiously. She gazed at it fascinated, held in spite of herself. It drew her. Conscious of the strange vigor in her limbs again, she walked straight into the perfumed presence and pulled the proud head hungrily to her lips.

The woman looked at her with more than a passing curiosity. "You are as white as the lilies, child," she said. "Are you ill?"

The girl did not answer. The organ had begun and she seemed to be listening. With the first notes of the great prelude a sort of terror took possession of her and she looked around wildly as if to escape. The next moment she was writhing in the throes of a mortal struggle. Her fingers beat and tugged at her throat as though they would tear her in pieces, and she fought frantically for breath. The woman rushed to her, only to be thrown back against a pillar.

The organ, threading its tortuous maze of perplexity and grief, seemed to drag the girl mercilessly into its agony; then, gradually feeling the way into clearer spaces, in the same manner it seemed to call her out of her confusion and torment of spirit until it reached out triumphantly after its great redeeming chord of victory and life.

Then at last the girl's convulsive fingers dropped and a something that was at first unbelief, then hope, then veritable surety, swept her face like a flame.

The thing that happens once, maybe, in a generation, in a century, had happened.

The little figure under the queen lily straightened and stretched out both her arms, waiting for the releasing chord. And when it came—exultant, the imprisoned voice burst into the pregnant silence. "Behold! Behold! they have rolled away the stone!"

The choirmaster of St. Luke's whirled around on his chair. He was to have patched the prelude to the first ensemble, omitting the great opening solo. What did it mean? They looked in turn at him dumb with amazement.

But the voice sang on, rising in supreme release.

Herr Baum fell on his knees, fumbled, found them finally, and accompanied it in unhalting winged flight up to the last regal note. Then with a bound he was down among his choir.

"Who did that? he shouted. "Who did it?"

A choir girl pointed timidly. Herr Baum looked around. At the entrance to the chancel, between the high lilies, a girl was standing, a girl with a radiant, glorified face.

"It was I," she breathed ecstatically. "I—oh, it is a miracle! I couldn't help it! Tell her I didn't mean to take her solo. She wouldn't mind if she knew, and I am going now—away."

"Mean to do it! Who are you, girl?" His voice was rough with excitement, and the girl fell back from him, the joy in her face in the instant less vivid.

The woman interposed sharply. "Herr Baum, can't you see? This girl has been ill. She didn't mean any harm. I saw it all. Something wonderful has happened to her!"

"Harm! Harm!" he roared. "What are you talking about? She's an angel right from heaven, after I had wired all over the city after—ah—ah—a lady to take Miss Mason's place."

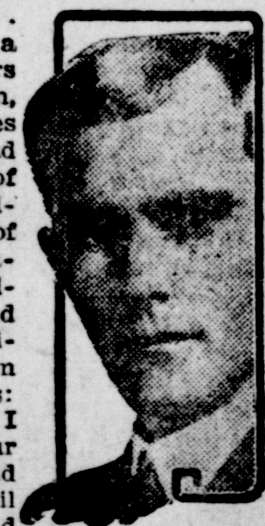

"Oh," he leaped into the girl's eyes, "would you let me try? I could do it now. I wouldn't fail. I—I know I wouldn't! Wait! Wait! Let me tell you."

And before he could reply, she had plunged into the passionate recital of the thing that happened to her; of her overpowering desire to sing, and how in one supreme moment it had wrought the miracle and resolved itself into the power. The choir in the stalls was breathless, and the woman, her cheeks wet with unshed tears, hung on her words with an attention more absorbed and intense every moment until at last unable to

YOUR attention is respectfully called to an important point not generally known, that a laxative should have a tonic element to successfully meet constipation.

Mr. John B. Capers, of 610 Pecan St., Fort Worth, Texas, had a significant experience in this particular. He was afflicted with a severe case of constipation and bowel trouble. He spent a good deal of money in trying to find a remedy. To his astonishment Peruna very quickly relieved him of his bad symptoms.

This happened a number of years ago. Since then, Mr. Capers states that he has had similar attacks of trouble, the profuse, prompt and efficient relief from Peruna. He says: "Up to the time I started using your Peruna I could drink castor oil like water. It did no good. As for salts, they were of no use. Physicists of all kinds and classes were used, but we had to call on the fountain syringe for help." Peruna was able to correct this condition completely in Mr. Capers' case, and there is every reason to believe that it was the tonic qualities of Peruna, added to the laxative qualities, that procured this very desirable result.

control herself any longer, she burst out excitedly:

"Are you?—I believe you are—oh, it must be—tell me your name, please," she implored.

"My name is Margaret Hall," the girl said wonderingly.

"Oh, I knew it! My dear boy! At last! At last! Oh, my dear, I'm so glad! I'm so glad!"

And the girl found herself engulfed in quivering arms, kisses and teary cheeks, exclamations and explanations, the reasons of all of which was clear when the little woman said that she was Robert Lynn's aunt, and that he had been searching for weeks and months for the girl who had sent him away.

Margaret Hall did not lie that night in the sordid attic room, nor with the flowers under the open sky, but in a great chamber, tucked under silken coverlets, while the April breeze, no longer chill, came and went, blowing soft draperies, flaunting spring fragrances, or toying with the flower that lay on her lips—not a tulip or even a queen lily, but a bit of purple heartsease from the bunch in the bowl beside the bed.

"Tomorrow," she murmured happily, sleepily, "he said he would go with me—out to the tulips in the square!"

TACKLE TEACHER PROBLEM

MADISON, Wis., April 11.—The problem of training and holding in the teaching profession superior young men and women engaged about sixty prominent school officials and heads of state educational institutions here yesterday. The conference was called by State Superintendent C. P. Cary.

PESSIMISM.

A habit of looking at things from a distorted angle, of focusing the vision on things that depress and suggest unhappiness and misery, is a destroyer of happiness and success. A man who goes about with a funeral face, thinking "hard times," fearing "dull seasons," disaster, panic and failure wherever his interests center, is never a happy man, rarely a successful one. Pessimism is a destructive force in men's lives, just as optimism is a constructive agency.—Selected.

GOVERNORS WILL MEET IN STATE

Madison Chosen for June Conference of Executives Announces Secretary

Sessions for the first four days will be held in Wisconsin's new State capitol building in the city of Madison, after which an adjournment will be taken to the city of Milwaukee for a one day session.

Already twenty-five governors have signified their intention of being present, and members of the president's cabinet have been invited.

The meeting will be held in Madison on the invitation of Governor Francis E. McGovern of Wisconsin. Madison is the first city in the central portion of the United States to be honored by a meeting of the Governors' conference.

WANT SPECIAL SESSION

SUPERIOR, Wis., April 11.—In favor of reducing taxes, if it can be done without cutting the fund for road building, voters in the Douglas county owns went on record by a considerable majority as wanting an extra session of the legislature to consider the matter.

MAY 1 BIRD DAY

MADISON, Wis., April 11.—Arbor and Bird day and fire prevention day has been fixed for Friday, May 1, by proclamation of Governor McGovern. He recommends the clearing away of unsightly rubbish and disposing of all inflammable material that may in any way add to the risk from fire.

"Plea" in the Legal Sense

In the legal sense the word "plea" is grossly misused. One reads that the lawyer during a trial "delivered an eloquent plea to the jury." He did nothing of the sort. He delivered to the jury an argument or an entreaty that may or may not have been eloquent. A plea is properly used only of the pleadings or arraignments before a trial, not of the "argument" at the trial. A plea is invariably addressed to the court; an "argument" may be addressed either to the court or the jury. The same applies (still in the legal sense of the words) to the verbs "to plead" and "to argue."—New York World.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it—Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning! the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. COULDN'T SLIP IT OVER ON US

Yesterday a man claiming to be James Thompson entered The Tribune office with a vigorous kick about a photograph which we had published, over his name, and which he declared was not his likeness, but that of his brother George, district judge, of Ellsworth, Wis. We colored the man and took him to the scales. He tipped the beam at 185, the exact weight of the man from Ellsworth, and ten pounds lighter than our own Jim. It seems that Brother George had called on Jim, and they had connived to hoax The Tribune. But that unfeeling sleuth, the Fairbanks Morse scales, ferreted out the conspiracy.

THE STORY OF THE CANAL TOLL PACT

The clause in the Hay-Pauncefote treaty which the administration interprets as an agreement with England that our own ships shall be subjected to exactly the same conditions as those of all other nations in the use of the Panama canal, is as follows:

The canal shall be free and open to the vessels of commerce and of war of all nations observing these rules, on terms of entire equality, so that there shall be no discrimination against any such nation, or its citizens or subjects, in respect of the conditions or charges of traffic, or otherwise. Such conditions and charges of traffic shall be just and equitable.

This treaty was adopted in 1901 as a step essential to the digging of the canal. Those who wonder why this country found it necessary to make terms with England, and her alone, in relation to the canal, may be interested in these facts:

In 1850 the United States felt there was reason to believe that England contemplated digging a canal. The States were unable at the time to do it themselves, but objected to England's doing it. So Uncle Sam took the active part in the negotiation of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, whereby the countries jointly agreed to refrain from securing property rights in, or fortifying, the isthmus for canal purposes. At the time of its passage this treaty was regarded as a triumph for the United States.

But when, having grown up to the job some fifty years later, the United States desired to build the canal, the Clayton-Bulwer treaty was an obstacle. The obstacle was overcome by the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, which was regarded, in its time, as great an achievement of American diplomacy as the treaty which it superseded. It recorded a change of concessions, England consenting to our possession and fortification of the canal zone provided we agree to the equality of tolls.

It seems to have been a good bargain. Irrespective of whether it was good, it was a bargain.

TAKING CARE OF PUBLIC PROPERTY

The board of public works should exact greater care on the part of those who, for one reason or another, are obliged to dig up pavement in the streets to reach conduits. This work is necessary, and the city must permit it even though loss is sustained. Even if contractors and others who do it employ the most conscientious care some damage will result, and to use less than the utmost caution is bad faith.

However, it is human nature to be lax about that which no longer concerns one, and unless the city officials follow them exactly contractors will slight the work of relaying pavement. Examination of work being done just now on two streets suggests that the city officials are paying no attention to the abuses of the pavement privilege.

The habit of drivers to pass over the sidewalks with heavy loads is still ruining the new sidewalks on Cass street between Seventeenth and Twentieth streets. Citizens there have been compelled to pay for walks that are being ground to bits by trespassers. The board and the police were notified months ago, but although the offense is committed hourly, no arrest or even reprimand has resulted.

MEASURE BOTH WITH SAME YARD STICK

The Sentinel concludes that socialism has declined because Emil Seidel polled about one thousand less votes in the Tuesday election than he polled in the election two years ago. But in the election last Tuesday Mayor Bading polled four thousand less votes than he polled two years ago. Has bi-partisanship also declined?

Helped Some

The lecturer raised his voice with emphatic confidence.

"It is my belief and I venture to assert it," he declared, "that there isn't a man in this audience who has ever done anything to prevent the destruction of our vast forests."

A rather timid, henpecked-looking man quietly rose in the rear of the hall and said:

"I—er—I've shot woodpeckers."

Everybody's.

In Reading a Garden Annual

What do I care if snows drift deep And chill the north wind blows, When, in the sheltered room I keep, A glorious garden grows?

Free-flowered Ramblers climb and cling Immune from Bug and Blight, While from the floor Show Pansies spring, As big as saucers, quite.

Larkspurs and Phlox their standards rear So thick with flowers no room is left for leaves, and through the year Display Continuous Bloom.

Exotic Ferns and Orchids Rare Grow rankly all about, Thriving the Better without Care, Indifferent to the drought.

So why revile grim winter's rage When summer falls to show Such flowers as those the Seedman's page, And boundless fancy know?

An Insult

An attorney was cross-examining a witness.

"You say you left Boston on the 16th?" queried the lawyer.

"Yes, sir," replied the witness.

"And returned on the 28th?"

"Yes, sir."

"What were you doing in the interim?"

"I never was in such a place!" he replied, indignantly, with heightened color.

Men think God is destroying them because he is tuning them. The violinist screws up the key until the tense cord sounds the concert pitch, but it is not to break it, but to use it tunefully, that he stretches the string upon the musical rack. — Beecher.

He countered the question with another. "Supposing we were all individuals, in the sense you mean? Supposing each of us did exactly as he pleased? Can you honestly imagine a more confusing place than this world would be? The Manchurian pony is a wild little beast, an individual if ever there was one; but man tames him and puts to use his energies. And so it is with human individuality. We of the mediocre tame it and harness and make it useful to the general welfare of humanity. And when we encounter the untamable, in order to safeguard ourselves, we must turn it back into the wilderness, an outlaw. Indeed, I might call individuality an element, like fire and water and air."

"But who conquer fire and water and air?" Elsa demanded, believing she had him pocketed.

"Mediocrity, through the individual of this or that being. Humanity in the bulk is mediocre. And odd as it seems, individuality (which is another word for genius) believes it leads mediocrity. But it can not be made to understand that mediocrity ordains the leadership."

"Then you contend that in the hands of the stupid lies the balance of power?"

"Let us not say stupid, rather the unimaginative, the practical and the plodding. The stubbornest person in the world is one with an idea."

"Do you honestly insist that you are mediocre?"

"No," thoughtfully. "I am one of those stubborn men with ideas. I merely insist that I prefer to accept the tenets of mediocrity for my own peace and the peace of others."

Elsa forgot those about her, forgot her intended humiliation of the man at her side. He denied that he was an individual, but he was one, as interesting a one as she had met in a very long time. She, too, had made a blunder. Quick to form opinions, swift to judge, she stood guilty with the common lot, who permit impressions instead of evidence to sway them. Here was a man.

"We have gone far afield," she said, a tacit admission that she could not refute his dissertations. This knowledge, however, was not irksome.

"Rather have we not come to the bars? Shall we let them down?"

"Proceed."

"In the civil and military life on this side of the world there are many situations which we perform must tolerate. But these, mind you, are settled conditions. It is upon new ones which arise that we pass judgment. I knew nothing about you, nothing whatever. So I judged you according to the rules."

Elsa leaned upon her elbows, and she smiled a little as she noted that the purple had gone from his nose and that it had resumed its accustomed rubicundity.

"I go on. A woman who travels alone, who does not present letters of introduction, who . . ."

"Who attends strictly to her own affairs. Go on."

"Who is young and beautiful."

"A sop! Thanks!"

Imperturbably he continued: "Who seeks the acquaintance of men who do not belong, as you Americans say."

"Not men; one man," she corrected.

"A trifling difference. Well, it arouses a disagreeable word, suspicion. For look, there have been examples. It isn't as if yours were an isolated case. There have been examples, and these we apply to such affairs as come under our notice."

"And it doesn't matter that you may be totally wrong?"

His prompt answer astonished her. "No, it does not matter in the least. Simmered down, it may be explained in a word, appearance. And I must say, to the normal mind . . ."

"The mediocre mind."

"To the normal and mediocre mind, appearances were against you. Observe, please, that I did not know I was wrong, that you were a remarkable young woman. Bell System

Telephone trouble frequently comes from failure to take good care of the instrument and use it properly.

Observance of the following simple rules will save telephone trouble:

Do not let the telephone cords get wet. Do not stick pins or needles in the cords. Do not lay a pair of scissors or any other article on top of the wall instrument. Always replace receiver on hook when through talking. Always replace receiver with cord-end up. This prevents dust accumulating on the diafram. Never use the receiver for other than the purpose for which it is intended.

quaintance, you sought none other, in fact, repelled any advances. This alone decided me."

"Then you were decided?" To say that this blunt exposition was not bitter to her taste, that it did not act like acid upon her pride, would not be true. She was hurt, but she did not let the hurt befog her sense of justice. From his point of view the colonel was in no fault. "Let me tell you how very wrong you were indeed."

"Doubtless," he hastily interposed, "you enveloped the man in a cloud of romance."

"On the contrary, I spoke to him and sought his companionship because he was nothing more nor less than a ghost."

"Ah! Is it possible that you knew him in former times?"

"No. But he was so like the man at home; so identical in features and build to the man I expected to go home to marry . . ."

"My dear young lady, you are right. Mediocrity is without imagination, stupid, and makes the world a dull place indeed. Like the man you expect to marry? What woman in your place would have acted otherwise? And I have made my statements as bald and brutal as an examining magistrate! Instead of one apology I offer a thousand."

"I accept each and all of them. More, I believe that you and I could get on capitally. I can very well imagine the soldier you used to be. I am going to ask you what you know about Mr. Warrington."

"This, that he is not a fit companion for a young woman like yourself; that a detestable rumor follows hard upon his heels wherever he goes. I learned something about him in Rangoon. He is known to the riff-raff as Parrot & Co., and I don't know what else. All of us on shipboard learned his previous history."

"Ah!" She was quite certain of the historian.

"And not from respectable quarters, either."

"If I had been elderly and without physical attractions?" Elsa inquired sarcastically.

TYLER DESCENDANT MAKES VAIN PLEA

Miss Mattie R. Tyler.

Miss Mattie R. Tyler, aged seventy, a granddaughter of former President Tyler, is here shown entering the White House, where she pleaded with President Wilson to help her regain the postoffice at Courtland, Va. She has been postmistress there for seventeen years, at a salary of $700 a year, which was sufficient to support her and her sister. Recently another was appointed to succeed her. The president was obliged to tell the aged woman that he could not help her, as she lost her position through civil service rules.

Trouble with increasing age is that it increases one's prejudices, instead of diminishing them.

EAGER TO WORK

Health Regained by Right Food

The average healthy man or woman is usually eager to be busy at some useful task or employment. But let dyspepsia or indigestion get hold of one, and all endeavor becomes a burden.

"A year ago, after recovering from an operation," writes a Mich. lady, "my stomach and nerves began to give me much trouble."
"At times my appetite was voracious, but when indulged, indigestion followed. Other times I had no appetite whatever. The food I took did not nourish me and I grew weaker than ever."

"I lost interest in everything and wanted to be alone. I had always had good nerves, but now the merest trifle would upset me and bring on a violent headache. Walking across the room was an effort and prescribed exercise was out of the question."

"I had seen Grape-Nuts advertised, but did not believe what I read, at the time. At last, when it seemed as if I were literally starving, I began to eat Grape-Nuts."

"I had not been able to work for a year, but now after two months on Grape-Nuts I am eager to be at work again. My stomach gives me no trouble now, my nerves are steady as ever, and interest in life and ambition have come back with the return to health."

PLAN FOR PAVING OF WOOD STREET

Estimate and Specifications for Asphalt Macadam Received by the Council

Plans and estimates for the paving of Wood street from Logan to Rublee streets, a distance of three blocks, were received at the meeting of the council last night. The plans, which call for an asphalt macadam pavement, will come before the council again at the next meeting two weeks from last night, at which time it is probable that they will either be accepted and the paving ordered, or rejected, which would necessitate drafting of new plans in order to put through the paving of the street this year.

At the meeting of the council two weeks ago a sidewalk was ordered from Prospect street between Rublee and Sill streets, a distance of two blocks. No contracts have yet been let for its construction.

No advertising for bids for the paving of St. Andrew street has yet been made. The pavement, which will extend from Caledonia street to the Rubber mills, will be of asphalt macadam, a pavement with a concrete base, covered with a mixture of asphalt, granite and gravel.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

SUFFRAGETTE POINTERS

To those not familiar with the Pilgrim's Progress the points made in this allegory may be somewhat obscure. A boy reading the title of that book, called it Bryan's Pilgrim's Progress and it was not such a bad mistake as Bryan is something of a pilgrim himself. It may seem natural to one brought up on the Bible and Pilgrim's Progress, supplemented by the almanac and weekly paper
to teach by using parables and al-legories. The words conservatism and progress here, have no reference to any particular political parties, they only refer to the feeling for and against suffrage, and it was written
a year and a half ago.

One hot summer afternoon, while thinking over the strangeness of politics in general, and equal suffrage
in particular, I suddenly found myself high in the air and looking down upon the earth I had just left. A spirit of the air appeared and offered to guide me about the upper regions, or he would stay with me and explain what might seem strange to me upon the earth. I chose the latter, and taking my stand upon a cloud I looked below. Well, I said,
after looking for a time, things look
about the same from this elevation,
with one exception, (this highway
can now be seen from the earth, at the time this was written, it was hardly visible.) I see a broad highway that seems to cut through the other roads; the beginning I can not see but at the end there seems to be a beautiful city with shining buildings and glittering towers and spires.
And there is another strange thing about this road; many women are walking in it with the men and there seems to be no trouble at all on that account. What does it all mean? He replied, "It is quite a new road, and is not yet much traveled." It comes from the land of the conservatives,
and is called the Progressive Highway, and leads to the beautiful city
you see in the distance which is called Progress. For various reasons women have never been allowed in the other roads, so now they have made one for themselves, but they are not selfish, and it is free to all who wish to walk in it. But, I said,
why should there be high fences on each side of this highway? "Well,"
he said, "It is a queer world down
there. The fences are called Fear and Prejudice, and every one who wishes to walk in this new road, must go over those fences—not under or through, but directly over. Prejudice is the feeling against women
walking in the same political road
with men that has come down through ages. Fear is the dread of what may possibly happen if they do." That sounds interesting, I said,
how do the women themselves take the fences? O, about like the men in such movements. Many come from their homes in the land of the conservatives, but the obstacles of Fear

a negro porter. Lude Anderson, a negro passenger, was crushed to tempted to escape. Irving Kent, a attack on the robbers who, after

and Prejudice are too much for them
and they return to their homes discouraged. However, the numbers taking the high jump into this new road, and marching merrily on to the beautiful city called Progress, are rapidly increasing. My guide now left me to guide other parties and I was left alone. I was so much encouraged at what he had told me that I moved suddenly and my cloud went from under my feet and I fell to the earth with a shock, and lo, it was a dream. Dreams are said to go by contraries, but let us hope that this highway, in which all may walk
equally will come true. C. P. D.

Helped Herself

Four-year-old Helen wished to get into the playroom, but the gate (which had been put at the door to keep her baby brother in) was locked. She tried again and again to climb over it, when at last her mother heard her say, "Dear God, please help me get over this gate."
Just then she tumbled over and said, "Never mind; I got over myself."—Harper's Magazine.

Willie Scored

On moving into a new neighborhood the small boy of the family was cautioned not to fight with his new acquaintances. One day Tommy came home with a black eye and badly bespattered with mud.
"Why, Tommy," said his mother, "didn't I tell you not to fight until you had counted 100?"
"Yes'm," sniffled Tommy, "and look what Willie Smith did while I was counting."—The Ladies' Home Journal.

On the Verge of Harmlessness

Early one morning, on the second day out, a terribly seasick passenger, pale and hollow eyed, came out of his stateroom and ran into a lady who was coming along the passageway clad in the scantiest raiment. She screamed and started to run. "Don't be alarmed!" groaned the man.
"Don't be alarmed, madam; I shall never live to tell it."

Any woman likes to see a well dressed woman—if she is a woman. The man who believes in luck is very likely to develop into a loafer.

misconduct between Rev. Henry Dolle, Catholic priest at La Crescent,
Minn., and the daughter of a prominent La Crescent citizen, were absolutely false and were not founded in fact.

He also entered into an agreement with Father Dolle to pay $100, the expense preliminary to a $50,000 suit
which the priest contemplated starting against him, to permit the priest
to publish broadcast his affidavit
confessing the stories he circulated were false, and to himself, do all in his power to circulate the truth.

Both the agreement and the affidavit were drawn by Attorney A. H.
Schubert of this city and were signed
Wednesday, April 8, by Mr. Fitting in the presence of Miss Grace
M. Denney, Mr. Schubert's stenographer and a notary public.

In the affidavit "the affiant admits that he at various times circulated stories of attempted misconduct between the above Rev. Henry Dolle" and a young lady whose name
the interested parties requested be not published.

He further swears "that such story
is not true, that he has no evidence of its being true: That this affidavit is made for the purpose of denying said story by giving the denial as wide a circulation as the story which he told."

Recently Father Dolle was informed of the tale being circulated about the village of La Crescent and immediately consulted attorneys here. They in turn traced the story direct to Mr. Fitting, securing affidavits to the effect that he had circulated the tale.

The priest contemplated suing for $50,000 damages under the Minnesota slander law and it was to avoid this suit that Fitting denied the truth of the story and admitted that,
to his knowledge it was without foundation.

THIRST KILLS TWO

SOUTH CHICAGO, Ill.,
April 11.—Because a workman left his post to get a drink of water, two employees of the Illinois Steel company
died today from asphyxiation. The accident occurred at a blast furnace, where the two men were cleaning a
"dust catcher" using gas pressure to do the work. The duty of the third man was to regulate the gas. When the two men signalled for the gas to be shut off, the third man was absent.

OFFICERS LIABLE FOR MONEY AID

Schubert Announces He Will Hold Them Accountable for Money Given Aldermen for Work

CUTS HIS BILL FOR SERVICES

Wanted $262 for Taking the Case to Supreme Court
and Council Cut It to
Only $200 Last Night

Attorney A. H. Schubert today
served notice on the mayor, comptroller, city clerk and city treasurer
that in the future he will hold them
liable for all city money paid to aldermen who are doing city work.

The notice which was given this morning followed the action of the council last night in shaving a bill
for legal services, presented by Mr.
Schubert, from $262 to $200. The bill was for taking the suit of Brunke against the city of La Crosse
to the supreme court and winning the action. It was fought out in Madison after Schubert had been succeeded by J. E. Higbee as city attorney and Mr. Schubert's services were necessary because Mr. Higbee had been the attorney for Brunke.

It is understood that the alderman
Mr. Schubert is aiming at with his notice served this morning is William Torrance, president of the council and former mayor, who has furnished some of the iron work for the new pump station.

"All I have to say is that the city officials should do nothing except upon the advice of the city attorney.
I'll take my chances on getting my money," said William Torrance this afternoon.

GERMANY TO BE LEADING COUNTRY

Empire of Kaiser Is Out-stripping Rest of Europe
Says Doctor
Smedal

"Germany is rapidly forging ahead of the other European countries and will soon be the leading country of Europe." This is the opinion expressed today by Dr. G. Smedal of the firm of Christianson, Gunderson and Smedal, upon his return from Europe where he has been touring during the last several months.

During his European trip, Dr.
Smedal attended the royal clinics at Berlin, where he made a short study of German surgery. At Stockholm he became acquainted with Dr. John Berg, one of the most noted surgeons of Europe. Dr. Berg is the physician of King Gustav V of Sweden.

Speaking of Berlin he said:
"The German capital is today the leading city of Europe, including even London. Berlin has not as large a population as the English capital,
but in point of advancement and progress, not only along scientific lines
but others as well, Berlin has come to be looked upon as the city of the old world by the people of Europe."

Asked how Germany compares with the United States, Dr. Smedal said that American business is of a more stable nature but that in point
of scientific advancement, such as the development of the airship, this country is far behind Germany and other "up-in" countries.

Dr. Smedal spent a few weeks with his mother at Telemarken, Norway,
and later visited Christiana, Stockholm and Lelunda.

SORENSEN URGES CHURCH ATTENDANCE

Mayor: Ori J. Sorensen today issued a proclamation
urging La Crosse people to attend church tomorrow,
Easter Sunday.

"While I believe 'go to church' should be urged weekly, I want to urge all La Crosse people to attend services in their respective churches tomorrow," he said.

HIGHER QUALITY ASKED BY PUBLIC

Demand for Pictures of a Higher Grade Is Being
Granted by the Film
Makers

INDUSTRY IS AN ENORMOUS ONE

Investments Are Millions
Instead of Thousands;
Expense No Object
to Makers

Each day adds to the dignity of the moving picture industry. Having passed its experimental stage, it is attracting the biggest and richest men in the theatrical field. The best of the "legitimate" actors have either forsaken the footlights altogether, or are playing occasionally in great photo dramas.

The statement that a certain picture cost so many thousands of dollars to produce now has no meaning to lovers of pictures. They understand, and what is more demand,
that cost be sacrificed in order that
the pictures may be perfect in detail
as possible.

And having demanded, the public is getting what it asks for. Investments in the picture industry are no longer spoken of in thousands of dollars, but in millions. No expense is too great for the producers, there is apparently no limit to the daring and the skill exhibited by the actors in order that audiences may be thrilled by the realism. Lives are taken in their owners' hands daily; many are yearly sacrificed on the altar of realism, but the picture goes on knowing nothing of this and the demand grows
greater day by day.

What, then, is the logical result?
The ten cent picture is no longer a paying proposition for either the manufacturer, the exchange or the exhibitor. The high grade pictures demand higher prices, and the day
has passed when the average exhibitor can afford to run a high priced
picture at ten cents in order to advertise his house. The public, having demanded higher quality, must pay
the higher price, and this is being done without argument in the larger cities. As high as a dollar and a half is being paid for some programs.

As the quality is going up and the price is following suit, it naturally follows that the opinion of the pictures is greatly improved in the public mind. They are spoken of with more respect. The term "movies" is rarely used, except by newsboys and thoughtless people, and "picture shows" are fast becoming known as
"picture theaters."

The improvement is fast. We are dazzled by the speedy way in which we are being educated to better things in pictures. And we marvel at the present perfection of the industry. But the improvement is so fast and so wonderful that twenty years from now we will wonder how we ever obtained enjoyment from the films of this day. What the improvement it will eventually lead to we cannot even surmise, but of one thing we can be certain: the pictures
are here to stay.

HOLD UP COIN FOR HOME-COMING WEEK

Council Argues Over Request for $1,000 and Resolves to Hold Up the Coin
Meeting of the Whole

POLICE MATRON MATTER REFERRED

Mayor Re-introduces Ordinance and It Also Is Set
Over for Discussion to Future Meeting

Whether the city shall give the home coming week celebration fund
$1,000 will be threshed out, together with the mayor's ordinance providing for the appointment of a police matron, at a meeting of the council
in committee of the whole some time next week. The two propositions were brought before the council last night. The police matron plan was not discussed, but considerable argument and difference of opinion developed over the city's contribution to the celebration expenses.

Argues for $1,000
Alderman Torrance, who introduced the resolution providing for the contribution, explained why the board of trade had doubled its first request for $500. He said that a careful estimate of expenses had increased the sum to be spent from $3,000 to $4,200. Aldermen Smith and Kroner spoke for the resolution, and Aldermen Mahoney, Collins and Roellig favored meeting the first request for $500.

The mayor, a member of the home coming week committee of the board of trade, addressed the council explaining the necessity of the larger sum. He declared that the finance and other committees of the celebration had scaled their appropriations
down to the lowest figure compatible with the success of the enterprise. He invited the members of the council to attend the board of trade directors' luncheon next Tuesday at the La Crosse club, to hear
the proposition thoroughly gone
over.

After some argument, the council last night decided, 12 to 8, to keep its membership in the Mississippi River Improvement association, and appropriated $200 as a year's assessment.

Denounces Station No. 2
A communication was read from the state board of control urging that the city take immediate action
to replace police station No. 2 on the north side. The board's letter characterized the station as a fire trap,
cold and unsuitable. The communication was referred.

No more street scrapings for the improvement of private property, was
the dictum of the council last night.
They decided to use all such scrap-
ings in the future to bring streets
now unpaved up to grade.

A report of the special water committee, describing the progress on the new water plant, was read.
Among other things mentioned in the report was the statement from Alvord and Burdick that repeated
cleanings of the boiler had shown that the well water was suitable for boiler use without passing through a purifier.

A resolution introduced by Mayor Sorensen, ordering the city engineer to draw up plans for beautifying the grounds of the new water plant, was adopted. The plans will be ready by the next meeting.

Costly Laces Board
The board of public works came in for a roast when Alderman Bartl
read a petition from John Costley, register in probate alleging that the board had torn up State street near his home to lay water pipes, had carted off the paving material so torn up, and dumped it, "for some reason not known to your petiti-
tioner," into the La Crosse river. Mr.
Costley requested that the board be ordered to fix up the street. The communication was referred.

The council adopted a resolution
appropriating $200 to former City Attorney Schubert for his service in defending a case for the city in the supreme court. A resolution was adopted ordering the city engineers
to prepare plans for the paving of Wood street from Logan to Rublee streets.

TO BURY PASTOR IN TREMPPEALEAU

The Rev. Edmond Trimm, one of the most widely known and popular ministers of the Methodist Episcopal church in this state, died yesterday
in Chicago at 1 a. m. after a painful illness of many months. The funeral services will be held at his old home at Trempealeau on Monday at 2 o'clock. The Rev. E. C.
Dixon, district superintendent of the Madison district, will be in charge of the services, and it is expected that many other preachers will attend.

Mr. Trimm was for ten years pastor of the Methodist church at Portage and last September was appointed to Cummins Avenue church,
Superior, but before moving thither
was reappointed to the church at Waupun. Intestinal difficulties necessitated a serious operation which was performed at Wesley hospital, Chicago, where he has lingered for a long time. He was a successful minister of the Methodist church for over thirty years.

COLONEL'S GOT IT BUT WHAT IS IT?

MANAOS, Brazil, April 11.—
Colonel Roosevelt has a curi-cul. This was the word which reached here today and scientists are busy explaining that the curiculi is very rare even in South America.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Cable dispatches from Brazil indicate that Colonel Roosevelt has shot something, but there is a wide division of opinion
here today as to what is a curi-
cul, or cururo or a spalacopus
poepiggi—as the prize is variously designated.

Describing the rare specimen
Colonel Roosevelt is bringing back to Manaos, the Sun declares he has shot a cururo, a
"burrowing rodent which lives
underground," and explains that its scientific name is spalacopus
poepiggi.

The Herald explained today
that a curiculi is a bird "short and stout with dentate bills and the first and second toes are reversed."

ASKS COURT TO PREVENT MOVING

Because he objects to the strenuous hustle bustle of moving, Fred Schnell, president of the board of public works, today appealed to the circuit
court to decide a dispute involving the term for which he bar-
gained for his present home.

Schnell rented the house belonging to August Jaeger, from Jaeger's agent last September,
when he claims it was stipulated
that he was to have the privilege of occupying the house for one year. According to the testimony recently introduced before Judge C. L. Baldwin, the owner later had an opportunity to sell the house and asked Schnell to move. This the president of the board of public works refused to do.

When action was brought by Jaeger before Judge Baldwin a decision was returned against Schnell. Today an appeal to the circuit court was filed with the clerk of court.

WHY SPRING COLDS ARE DANGEROUS
If Neglected They Lead to Serious, Perhaps Fatal Results
If you get a cold at this time of year and try to "let it wear off," it frequently develops into a stubborn lung trouble, which may in turn become chronic asthma, bronchitis or consumption. It is important to remember that Father John's Medicine relieves colds because of its nourishing body building elements, which give strength to the system and enable each organ to resume its normal functions. Father John's Medicine is not a patent medicine, contains no injurious drugs, but is a pure food medicine, for those who are weak and run down.

"PEG O' MY HEART"
Beautiful Florence Martin will be seen at La Crosse theater Wednesday, April 15, matinee and night, in the new comedy sensation, "Peg O' My Heart," by J. Hartley Manners, which is now in its second year at the Cort theater, New York, where it is breaking all records for sustained popularity with Laurette Taylor in the title role. The entire action of the play is supposed to take place in the living room of a villa in Scarborough, Eng., and has as its central figure a wild, mischievous, whole-souled girl who has been reared amid poverty in New York, but, nevertheless has preserved the flower like fragrance of the wildwood. Loyalty to a lowly father and to her father's country, Ireland, is the watchword of her nature, and she does not hesitate to express her sentiments when suddenly transplanted from the grip of penury to an aristocratic old home in England. Oliver Morosco has surrounded Miss Martin with a brilliant cast and the production is a fine one.

MINTYRE AND HEATH IN "THE HAM TREE"
McIntyre and Heath will be an attraction at the La Crosse Theater shortly in a revival of the most successful of the various genuinely funny musical comedies in which they have starred during their long and happy career as a team of black face entertainers, "The Ham Tree," under the management of John Cort.

"The Ham Tree" is by George V. Hobart, with lyrics by William Jerome and music by Jean Schwartz. These gentlemen have given to the book and score much that is new and novel for this season's presentation. The story concerns principally the misfortunes that strew the path of Henry Jones, an optimistic negro minstrel, and Alexander Hambletonian, a pessimistic coon whom the former lures from the comfortable surroundings that attend the servant of a small town livery stable. Jones is in need of "talent" for a minstrel show and Alexander falls under the spell of the many promises of fame and fortune that await him under the glow of the limelight. From this point the action of the play sets forth the many obstacles that prove to Alexander he is born to one calling, the same being quite the reverse to that of a footlight favorite.

GANGSTERS OF NEW YORK
"Gangsters of New York," a motion picture play, is full of climaxes, including a running fight between the "Dugan" and the "Golden" bands, in which scores of men chase one another around, over and through the congested tenement houses of the lower east side.

POEMS

You Ought To Know

OPPORTUNITY

(By JOHN J. INGALLS)

Master of human destinies am I.
Fame, love and fortune on my footsteps wait,
Cities and fields I walk; I penetrate
Deserts and seas remote, and, passing by Hovel, and mart, and palace, soon or late
I knock once unbidden at every gate!
If sleeping, wake—if feasting, rise
before
I turn away. It is the hour of fate,
And they who follow me reach every state
Mortals desire, and conquer every foe
Save death; but those who doubt or hesitate,
Condemned to failure, penury and
woe,
seek me in vain and uselessly implore—
I answer not, and I return no more.

CHURCH NEWS

Observe 150th Anniversary
Of Brown University

Plans are now practically complete for the celebration in October next—the second week of that month—of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Brown university, Providence, the oldest of Baptist educational institutions. This college was originally named after the plantation, but one Brown, giving the then unprecedented sum of $5,000 to it, secured in return the perpetuation of his name. The historic First Church of Providence was built both for a Baptist meeting house and to hold college commencement in.

Expect Large Attendance
At Summer Conferences

The first announcements of summer conferences for the year indicate that those in charge expect large numbers. The season of 1913 was disastrous in some directions, and poor in nearly all. Conference managers say they argue that two poor seasons will hardly come together. The missionary education movement will add two new conferences this year. One is in California, quite near to the well known Pacific Grove, and the other at Estes Park, Col. The Blue Ridge, Silver Bay and Lake Geneva conferences will of course be continued. The dates extend from June 26 to August 13, the period being covered by the five meetings named. Courses of study are to be more numerous than in former years.

The Cambridge summer school, which had no meetings last year, is to be resumed this year, with Bishop Perry of Rhode Island and Bishop Parker of New Hampshire in charge. It is attended by Episcopal women. Chautauquas, which now number scores, increase this season by a dozen or more. The original one in western New York is sacrificing its features somewhat in number in order that it may lay larger emphasis upon the summer assembly and school. Presbyterians will, through their foreign board, push mission study and their plan for system in mission work; a plan that is said to be in advance of all others. The number of these summer schools steadily increases here and in England, and schools are opening in Germany and Switzerland. Students attending them run into the thousands.

Churches Will Hold
Peace Conference

There will be held this summer, either in London or Geneva a church peace congress. It will last a fortnight, and all of the expenses will be defrayed from the income of the $2,000,000 Carnegie church peace fund. Details of the congress are in the hands of American clergymen, but it is now more than likely that the congress itself will be held in Geneva, owing to the initiative of the Swiss government. To it will be invited representatives of the religions of Asia—Mohammedan, Confucian, Brahmin and Shinto. The exact date will be fixed within a few weeks.

A part of this congress plan will be the visit to England this summer of a considerable number of American clergymen who will be heard in English pulpits.

Reports Cuba in Prosperous State

The agent of the American Bible society, in a report just made concerning Cuba, states the island to be in a most prosperous state. He finds sugar plantations, perfect in cultivation and up to date in crop handling, where barely two years ago were virgin forests. In the smaller towns of central and eastern Cuba he finds progress everywhere, in business houses, in manufactures, with steadily increased confidence in the stability of the government at Havana. The only disheartening thing, and this is part fear, not all observation, is that material wealth rapidly attained is more than likely to lead to social and political corruption.

Last year he reports the sale of no fewer than 32,000 Bibles and parts of Bibles in Cuba, and finds hardly a family that does not possess a copy even if an old translation.

Harlow B. Brown, who was graduated from the course in journalism at the University of Wisconsin last June and who has since been on the additional staff of System, has become the editor of the Dixon (Ill.) Daily Leader, the first issue of which appeared on March 12.

All Churches Plan Special Services To Mark The Day Of The Resurrection

Tomorrow marks the close of Holy Week, the most sacred portion of the year in the Christian calendar. Just eighteen hundred and eighty-five years ago, Christ arose from the tomb, after having paid the atonement price for his children. The words of St. John are, perhaps, the sublimest description of the crucifixion and the resurrection to be found in the gospels. The description in the gospel of St. John follows:

The Bible Story.

Then Pilate therefore took Jesus, and scourged him. And the soldiers platted a crown of thorns, and put it on his head, and they put on him a purple robe. . . . When the chief priests therefore saw him, they cried out, saying: "Crucify him, crucify him." Pilate said unto them, "Take ye him, and crucify him, for I find no fault in him." . . . Then delivered he him therefore unto them to be crucified. And they took Jesus and led him away. And he bearing his cross went forth into the place of a skull, which is called in the Hebrew Golgotha, where they crucified him, and two others with him, on either side one, and Jesus in the middle. . . .

Then the soldiers when they had crucified Jesus, took his garments, and made four parts, to every soldier a part; and also his coat; now the coat was without seam, woven from the top throughout. . . . Now there stood by the cross of Jesus his mother, and his mother's sister, Mary, the wife of Cleophas, and Mary Magdalene. When Jesus therefore saw his mother, and the disciple standing by, whom he loved, he saith unto his mother, Woman, behold thy son! Then saith he to the disciple, Behold thy mother! And from that hour that disciple took her unto his own home. After this, Jesus knowing that all things were now accomplished, that the scripture might be fulfilled, saith, I thirst. . . .

Now there was a vessel full of vinegar; and they filled a sponge with vinegar, and put it upon hyssop, and put it to his mouth. When Jesus therefore had received the vinegar, he said, It is finished! and he bowed his head, and gave up the ghost. . . . And after this Joseph of Arimathea, being a disciple of Jesus, but secretly for fear of the Jews, besought Pilate that he might take away the body of Jesus; and Pilate gave him leave. He came therefore and took the body of Jesus. And there came also Nicodemus, which at the first came to Jesus by night, and brought a mixture of myrrh and aloes, about a hundred pound weight. Then took they the body of Jesus, and wound it in linen clothes with the spices, as the manner of the Jews is to bury. Now in the place where he was crucified there was a garden; and in the garden a new sepulchre, wherein was never man yet laid. There laid they Jesus therefore because of the Jews' preparation day; for the sepulchre was nigh at hand. . . .

The Resurrection.

The first day of the week cometh Mary Magdalene early, when it was yet dark, unto the sepulchre, and seeth the stone taken away from the sepulchre. Then she runneth and cometh to Simon Peter, and to the other disciple, whom Jesus loved, and saith unto them, They have taken away the Lord out of the sepulchre, and we know not where they have laid him. Peter therefore went forth, and came to the sepulchre, and came to the sepulchre. And they ran both together and the other disciple did outrun Peter, and came first to the sepulchre. And he stooping down, and looking in, saw the linen clothes lying; yet went he not in. Then cometh Simon Peter following him, and went into the sepulchre, and seeth the linen clothes lie, and the napkin, that was about his head, but lying with the linen clothes, but wrapped together in a place by itself. Then went in also that other disciple, which came first to the sepulchre, and he saw, and believed. For as yet they knew not the scripture, that he must rise again from the dead. Then the disciples went away again to their own home. . . .

But Mary stood without at the sepulchre weeping; and as she wept, she stooped down and looked into the sepulchre. And seeth two angels in white sitting, the one at the head, and the other at the feet, where the body of Jesus had lain. And they said unto her, Woman, why weepest thou? She saith unto them, Because they have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him. And when she had thus said, she turned herself back, and saw Jesus standing, and knew not that it was Jesus. Jesus saith unto her, Woman, why weepest thou? whom seekest thou? She, supposing him to be the gardener, saith unto him, Sir, if thou have borne him hence, tell me where thou hast laid him, and I will take him away. Jesus saith unto her, Mary. She turned herself, and saith unto him, Rabboni; which is to say, Master. Jesus saith unto her, Touch me not; for I am not yet ascended to my father; but go to my brethren, and say unto them, I ascend unto my Father, and your Father; and to my God, and your God. . . .

Then the same day at evening, being the first day of the week, when the doors were shut where the disciples were assembled for fear of the Jews, came Jesus and stood in their midst, and saith unto them, Peace be with you. And when he had so said, he showed unto them his hands, and his side. Then were the disciples glad, when they saw the Lord. . . .

When Figures Led.

An old player was entertaining some friends with baseball stories. One of them was about a game between Mobile and Savannah, in the Southern league. The score stood 5 to 4 in favor of Savannah when a row occurred, and the umpire awarded the game to Mobile by the usual 9 to 0 score. On the way home from the grounds two negroes were discussing the affair. "But if Savannah had five runs," said one, "how could the scoah be nine to nothin'?" "Dat's easy," replied the other. "Didn't Mobile hav' foah runs?" "Ya-zs."

"Well, den, don't foah an' five make nine?"—New York Post.

STATE OFFICERS TO OPEN ROOMS

Local Aerie Plans Big Celebration April 22 for Official Housewarming; Karel to Attend

The entertainment committee of the local aerie of Eagles has about completed arrangements for the official opening of their new club by the state officers. The housewarming, a most successful affair, was held some time ago but the meeting of April 22 will add formal official sanction to the undertaking.

A class of at least one hundred new members will be initiated, the ceremony beginning at 7 o'clock in the evening. This will be followed by a banquet at which it is confidently expected that at least seven hundred members will be seated.

The oratorical portion of the program will be looked after by Judge John C. Karel of Milwaukee; Past Worthy President Toll of the state association; State President William Armstrong; State Secretary J. C. Nichols; Mr. Eugene Huston, president of the Milwaukee aerie; Mr. E. Zimmerman, vice president of the Milwaukee aerie; Mr. W. E. Brichner, secretary of the Milwaukee aerie; Mr. E. Nash, chaplain of the same aerie and local members of the order.

After the speeches which will be limited in length with a fine imposed for talking overtime, the program will consist of vaudeville skits and kindred forms of entertainment.

Besides members of the local aerie it is expected that members will be present from all of the neighboring cities.

FAMOUS MASTERS MISS LEE'S TUTORS

The appearance of Cordelia Lee at the La Crosse Theater April 16th is anticipated with keen interest. Of all the praise she has received both in Europe and America, we think the Dresden Nachrichten best summed up the consensus of opinion in the following:

"Cordelia Lee is a young lady violinist of enchanting qualities. Heaven was in its most gracious mood when bestowing on her its gifts. Cordelia Lee is an artist, with the full strength of youth and joyful freshness of spring breezes. Her playing has nothing of the girlish, tender sentimentality; on the contrary, something of the dash, energetic, going straight to her purpose.  Cordelia Lee is of a strong, warm, musical temperament. One sees and hears from time to time in the concert hall personalities who, similar to her, with fresh merry heart unstinted by routine, make music out of the inner impulses of their souls. She appears as the sworn enemy to impurities. Limpid, full and strong is the melody worked out by her. Loud, cheering exultation pours from her instrument."

Had the foregoing writer continued, he might have added another divine gift with which Miss Lee is so richly endowed. She is not only a fine violinist, but she is also an unusually beautiful woman. Her personality combines much force with great winsomeness.

Miss Lee was only ten years of age when she began the serious study of the violin; this was in Minneapolis. After four years she was taken to Prague, Bohemia, where she studied for three years with Sevcik, continuing her studies later with Thibaud, Kreisler and Ysaye and finally for two years with Leopold Auer, in St. Petersburg.

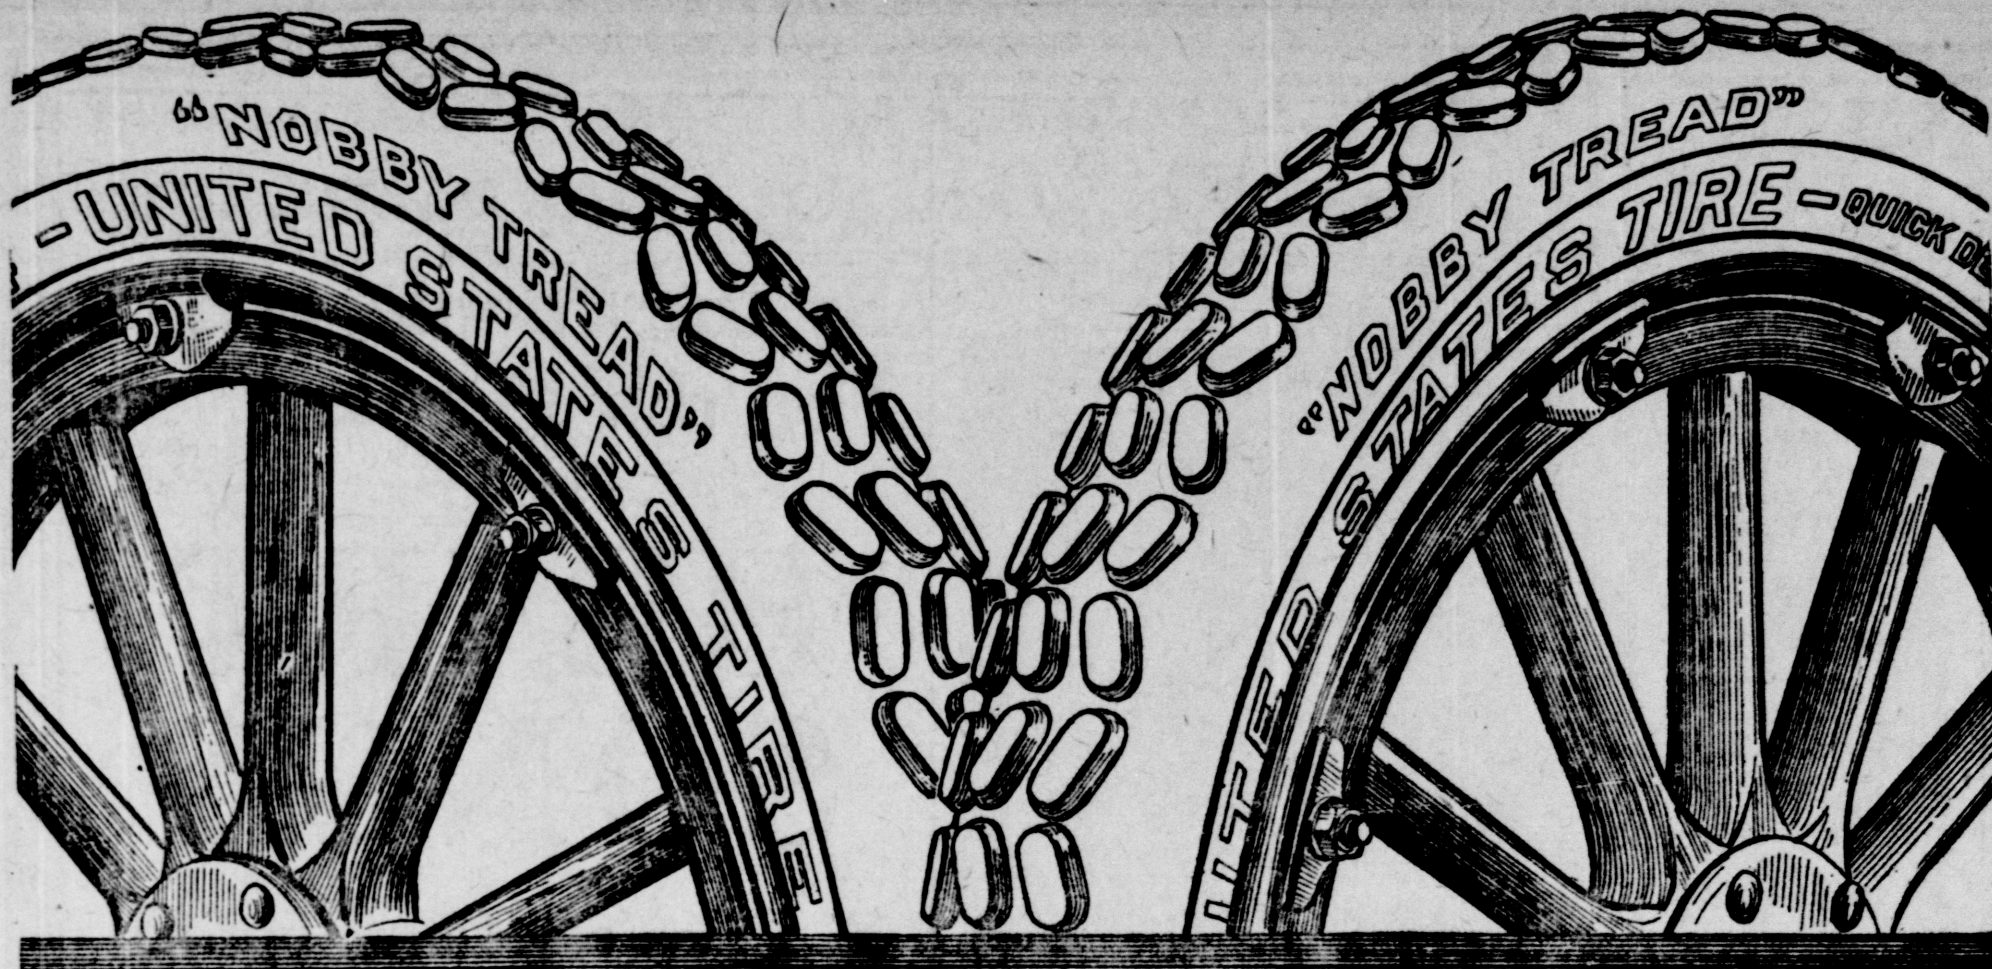

A girl seldom gives her heart to a man until it has been broken three or four times.

Captain Sigsbee, the best educated horse in the world, and the Six Cecilian Maids, instrumentalists, singers and dancers, will divide honors on the classy bill which will re-open the vaudeville season at the Majestic tomorrow afternoon.

Other acts in the show include Emil Turenne and Paul. Emil Turenne is a cannon ball juggler of enormous strength and dexterity. His brother Paul is a comedian of a high order. A famous mimic, Beelzebub, will also have a place on the program.

Next week Manager Koppelberger has engaged the famous Isle of Ginger musical comedy, with Skelly and Barclay, dancers of the tango Argentine, as headliners.

Week Financial

BANK STATEMENT
NEW YORK, April 11.—The weekly actual bank statement issued today showed the following changes:
Surplus increased, $8,279,450.
Loans decreased, $10,509,000.
Specie increased, $4,824,000.
Legals increased, $2,627,000.
Net deposits decreased, $5,837,000.
Circulation decreased, $5,837,000.
Surplus reserve, $18,732,950.

NEW YORK, April 11.—Today's very favorable bank statement is accounted for mostly by readjustment after the temporary influences of last week's quarterly settlements. As against the $23,000,000 loan expansion of a week ago, the account is this week reduced $10,000,000 and actual cash holdings, which were down $6,300,000 last Saturday, are up $7,400,000 today. The resultant increase in the surplus reserve of banks in the clearing house brings that item above the figure of this date in 1913 and 1912.

With European markets closed, and a good part of Wall street still keeping holiday, business on the day's stock market was naturally not important. The weakness toward the close, which caused a number of net declines, resulted seemingly from professional pressure on a lifeless market.

Close—Steel broke under 61 and the increased pressure on this issue produced a sympathetic decline in the entire list at the close.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, April 11.—Unfavorable crop news from Russia, lighter world's shipments and delay of seedling northwest, on account of cold, unsettled weather were bullish factors that caused a bulge in the wheat pit after a steady opening today. Each month gained ½.

More purchases of Argentine corn began to have its effect on the market today and corn prices lost ¼¢ for each month. Grain dealers here are having difficulty selling to the seaboard which is buying Argentine corn.

Oats had a firm undertone, acting independently of corn and closed steady on last night's closing prices.

Provisions were dull and about steady.

is the canal of life but it becomes a sewer if clogged up. All life consists of building up and tearing down and just in the same manner that the blood carries to the various parts of the body the food that the cells need for building up, so it is compelled to carry away the waste material that's torn down. These waste materials are poisonous and destroy us unless the liver and kidneys are stimulated into refreshed and vigorous life.

MAY SUE KILLIFER

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 11.—Edward E. Gates, in an extended statement here today, gave his opinion of yesterday's decision in the Killifer case. Gates is counsel for the Federal league. He said the Federals have three courses left: To attempt a permanent injunction before Judge Sessions; appeal to a higher court, or sue Killifer for breach of contract.

It may be quite natural that the fellow who is on the level isn't always the one who climbs upward. Do a favor for some fellows and they will think they are being done.

CARDS SATISFIED

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 11.—Having won the city series from the Browns four games to one, the Cardinals today were hoping that the rain would continue so that it would be impossible to play the other game. The contract for the series calls for six games regardless of when the series is won.

Questions of national, state, and community interest as well as social good times are featured in the suggested programs sent out by the University of Wisconsin Bureau of Social Center Development.

RITCHIE PICKED TO LICK MURPHY

Champion's Backers Offer 10 to 6 Odds on Frisco Battle; Murphy Has Backers

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 11.—Betting on the Ritchie-Murphy match, scheduled for Coffroth's Eighth street arena on the night of April 17 took a sudden spurt this afternoon when $1,500 was sent in on Ritchie to be placed at the opening odds of 10 to 6. The money was immediately covered by a Murphy enthusiast.

"Why don't you hold off for the 2 to 1 that will be laid within the next few days?" interrogated a bystander.

"Because," replied the Murphy man, "I think it is a 3 to 1 proposition that there will be no such price laid. Murphy has done everything asked of him in this part of the country."

Murphy's work in training camp apparently justifies the opinion of this spectator. It is apparent to all who have watched his work that he is showing better conditions than he has during the training period of any of his fights around here.

Post Mortems (BY HAL SHERIDAN.)

NEW YORK, April 11.—As umpire, Federal Judge Sessions of Grand Rapids has a decision average of 1000. Officiating in the big tussle of the indoor baseball season he has turned the rare trick of rendering a decision which has brought loud whoops of joy from both sides in denying the Federals an injunction against Killifer, but at the same time ruling against the 1913 reserve clause of organized baseball. President Tener of the National league declared the decision "timely and its effect far reaching and beneficial to baseball." The Federals claim a great victory, so there you are.

BAT NELSON SUES MILWAUKEE CLUB

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 11.—Bat Nelson, who blew into town on Thursday, engaged an attorney Friday to start action against the South Side A. C. for $211.93, which the Dane claims is still due him for boxing Ad Wolgast here last fall. According to the batter, the club agreed to pay him 33 1-3 per cent of the gross, but when time for a settlement came he was handed only 30 per cent.

EVERS SEES THE BALL

NEW YORK, April 11.—Johnny Evers got his first opportunity to bat against Johnson yesterday: "I saw the ball sometimes, anyway," he remarked after the game, commenting on his failure to hit.

AMERICAN GIRL MAY REALIZE AMBITION

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Harcourt.

The ambition of Mrs. Lewis Harcourt—to be the wife of an English cabinet minister—seems about to be realized. Her husband, Lewis Harcourt, is now mentioned as probably England's next minister of war. Mrs. Harcourt was the former Miss Ethel Mary Burns, daughter of Walter H. Burns of New York, a kinsman of the late J. P. Morgan.

FANATICAL FANCIES

Court litigation is the latest fad in American sports. First the Federal league starts injunction proceedings against Killifer to prevent his playing in organized baseball. Now Ban Johnson announces he is going to start suit against Hamilton to make him return to the major fold. Yesterday Bat Nelson dropped into Milwaukee and filed suit against an athletic club for $211 which he claims is still due as part of the Nelson-Wolgast purse. And now to clap the climax, a bushy at Springfield, Mass., is starting a libel suit against a newspaper, declaring an article which accused him of spiking another player lost him his job. He asks $1,000.

The Federal league and the ball players have now a glorious victory in the upset of the reserve clause. The judge says it won't hold and that players at the end of the playing season are free agents. He takes down all the fences, and the diamond stars can now twinkle from league to league and team to team as gayly and carelessly as a flea changing to pastures new. Isn't it a shame for the poor magnates, who will now be forced to get up off the nest and get into active competition for their money, instead of incubating their money. But what's the good? C. Welsher Murphy is out of the game.

The fever hits everybody. Even the Town of Campbell supplied itself with a new Easter lid.

The robin's song—
And Spring has sprung—
The Easter hats are here.
Along the street,
Our eyes to greet,
The bock beer signs appear.

PLAYER STARTS A LIBEL SUIT

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 11.—The libel suit of a baseball player against the Springfield Republican, who seeks $1,000 damages because of a story of a game was heard in the superior court on Thursday. Edward F. Faulkner, while playing on the Conn., blocked and spiked Thatcher G. Belfit of the Windsor Locks team, according to the Republican's story. Faulkner claims this was untrue, but as a result of the story he has lost his job.

SEATON GOES TO BROOKLYN CLUB

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 11.—Pitcher Tom Seaton will leave the Chicago Fed squad tonight and journey to Pittsburgh, where he will join Ward's Brooklyn Feds for the season opening. Seaton last night told the Wards that he would go to Brooklyn for an increase in salary of $1,000, giving him a total annual pay check of $8,500, and traveling expenses for his wife on all baseball trips. The Ward brothers accepted.

FEDS PICK NAME

INDIANAPOLIS, April 11.—The good old name of "Hoosier" will stick to the Indianapolis Federal league club. This was decided when at a stockholders' meeting the name was declared the winner of the contest here. "Hoosier Federals" is today the official title of last year's champions.

Melancholy Milk.

"Haven't you any milk that is more cheerful than this?" queried the new boarder as he poured some of the liquid into his coffee.

"Why, what do you mean by that?" queried the landlady.

"Oh, nothing," rejoined the new boarder. "Only this milk seems to have the blues."

High Fliers.

"How high can you go, Mr. Mono Plane?" "Oh, miss, the sky's the limit."—Buffalo Express.

MORAL STRENGTH.

Our times of greatest pleasure are when we have won some higher peak of difficulty, trodden under foot some evil and felt day by day so sure a growth of moral strength, within us that we cannot conceive of an end of growth.—Stopford A. Brooke.
